Announcements

Partner plans for Open Horizon in 2023

- › IBM has joined Eclipse SDV, plans to engage with the community there with the goals of:
 - › showing how Open Horizon can simplify, secure and automate cloud-based deployment and workload/ML management – demonstrating with code
 - › recruiting and working with like-minded organizations to promote Open Horizon as a standard for deploying and managing workloads/ML in vehicles – contributions to relevant projects and demonstrations at Contribution events
- › IBM would like to host a public hackathon to promote developer usage of Open Horizon. Will flesh out particulars on timing, geographic scope, themes, and any other details.
- › Are there any plans that can be shared from mimik and AccuKnox?

Previously ... Year in Review 2022

- › Here's a blurb I sent:

Over 2022, the Open Horizon project has been improving community growth and engagement. Our Mentorship program has worked with IBM JumpStart, P-Tech, RCOS, and LFX to engage with at least 20 students and early career professionals. Two companies have joined our project as Partners and voting members of our Technical Steering Committee (TSC): mimik Technologies and AccuKnox. And we had a successful Hacktoberfest, engaging with 16 new Contributors, merging over 30 PRs from them.

2021 and 2022 comparisons

Metric	2021	2022
New Maintainers	two	three?
Large code contributions	Intensivate	mimik, AccuKnox
Commits/contributors/new	Jan-Dec : 7.69k/281/101 Commits by new: 207	Jan-Dec : 9.24k/352/71 Commits by new: 453

Proposed 2023 Goals

Note: this is in addition to any WG-specific goals

- › Enhancements: build automation, new integrations (SDV, SBOMs, ???)
- › Promoting how Open Horizon brings value: News, Blog, Video, Tutorials
- › Project maturity to Stage Three (missed September goal from last year)
- › Hackathons to encourage developer adoption (Docker Desktop plug-in?)
 - › Please post ideas to Element/Matrix chat in #open-horizon
